New name - same quality, more internationality

Corrente AG is becoming Stimulus Germany

On January 22, 2024, Corrente AG, located in Kiel, will become Stimulus Germany. This marks the completion of its integration into the French Human & Work Group and its affiliation with the globally operating Stimulus network. By taking this step, the former Corrente AG is broadening its network and expanding its services beyond the boundaries of the German market.

Having joined the Human & Work Group in 2022 and integrating into the European Stimulus network, Corrente AG has successfully transitioned from a company managed by its owners to a company with a national and international presence. "For us, the transition to Stimulus Germany presents an exciting opportunity to be part of a transnationally managed company and thus for sustainable growth and international expansion. The parent company, Human & Work, aligns perfectly with Corrente's values and vision of promoting a healthy work environment. Together, we look forward to exploring new areas of work and consultancy, as well as embarking on fresh projects and initiatives," says Emilie Martin, Managing Director at Stimulus Germany.

High Service Quality Remains the Center of Focus

At Stimulus Germany, ensuring exceptional service quality remains the foremost concern for all employees. "Corrente has always stood for quality. This will continue to be upheld. We are also very pleased about the additional valuable expertise that the Stimulus network brings us," says Petra Janicki, Head of the Stimulus Germany Advisory Center. The network's dedication to high service standards and personalized guidance sets it apart from digital competitors in the field of workplace mental health, establishing a distinctive brand identity that extends throughout Europe.

An Internationally Expanded Range of Services

The transition to Stimulus Germany has not only provided valuable international connections but has also resulted in an expanded array of services tailored to the European market. "By working closely with colleagues from different countries, we can further expand our portfolio and strengthen our expertise in the international alliance. We see this as a great benefit," says Regina Reinschmidt, Head of Consultancy & Training at Stimulus Germany. So far, Corrente AG has focused on offering services such as EAP, management consulting, crisis management, and training specifically to German-speaking countries. Last June, Corrente AG acquired

GIDEON GmbH in Berlin, thus additionally strengthening their range of services in the areas of crisis management, aptitude diagnostics, and psychological risk assessment.

As part of their development strategy across Europe, the Human & Work Group has recently welcomed Dirk Antonissen as a partner. Dirk is renowned for his expertise in mental health within the European market and will play a pivotal role in driving the European strategy of Stimulus.
